LEWIS REFUSES TO END COAL STRIKE

FLOATING DRY DOCK FEAT AT U. M. REVEALED

VITAL ROLE PLAYED IN WINNING WAR OF PACIFIC

Ann Arbor, Oct. 6. (AP)—University of Michigan's vital role in the perfection of the U. S. navy's floating dry docks, one of the key factors in the success of Pacific warfare in World War II, was revealed today.

Lieut. - Commander Louis A. Baier, chairman of the department of naval architecture and marine engineering and director of the naval tank at the university, said his department was concerned with some of the most perplexing problems relating to the design, towing and anchoring of sections of the floating dry docks.

Called advance base sectional docks, sections of the dry docks were assembled in the United States and were towed by merchant and naval ships to ocean areas where they were to be used in the repair of fighting ships.

Towing Complicated

"It was a case of bringing the dry dock to the ship, rather than the ship to the dry dock," Baier said. "The docks also provided floating naval bases which could follow the fleet."

The first important problem for Baier's department was to determine if the dry dock sections could be self-propelled, using the power created by the diesel generating plants with which each section was equipped.

Those working on the problem conducted tests in the university's large testing tank, one of two in the United States, and discovered it was impractical to fit the sections with propellors of sufficient size and power to do the job. It also was found the sections lacked sufficient maneuverability to be self-propelled, the director stated.

Results of the tests showed the sections had to be towed, but with the towing came other complications. The department was given the problem of designing a form for the dry dock sections which would go through the water easily and at the same time preserve the lifting power of each section. Sections have a lifting power of from 8,000 to 10,000 tons.

Whole Battleship Lifted

This solved, it was found in towing tests that the sections swung back and forth, or yawed, while on the tow line. Solving that difficulty was one of the department's toughest jobs, Baier said.

Experiments finally revealed that placing projecting sections, or skegs, on the bottom of the sections in the shape of an open "V" caused the sections to tow correctly, with only a reasonable increase in drag, the department head declared.

A similar problem relating to the 100-ton floating cranes designed by the army also was solved by the university department. Ultimately at sea, tugs towing the cranes radioed a message to Baier and his department saying the cranes were towing "very well" and that they have outrun the convoy.

"If anyone of those problems could not have been solved, it would have meant failure of the dry docks and the cranes to reach their destinations," Baier pointed out.

"One of the trickiest problems was to determine the holding power required in the anchors needed to moor an assembled dock," he said. The completed dock was of immense proportions, Baier stated, and was capable of lifting the largest battleship.

Docks were assembled by connecting sections together and when anchored were subject to tremendous wind and current pressures.

DETROIT FILLS GASOLINE TANKS

Famine Ends As Truck Drivers Return To Their Jobs

Detroit, Oct. 6 (AP)—The three-week-old oil industry strike which has tied up deliveries of gasoline to Detroit's filling stations since Sept. 13, ended today as trucks from branches of all major companies began to fill the city's empty tanks.

Picket lines of the Detroit Local of the Oil Workers International Union (CIO) withdrew from oil company outlets as soon as it was learned the strike had been called off by union officials following navy seizure of 26 strike-bound oil refineries in the nation, three of them in Michigan.

Storage plant workers and drivers of Detroit Local 389 voted three to one to return to their jobs immediately, B. J. Schafer, international union representative in the Sixth (Chicago) District, said.

Commenting on union demands for a 30 per cent wage increase, the reason for the strike, Schafer said: "The question of take-home pay remains unsettled. We shall continue to press for settlement of that issue."

Plant managers at the Socony-Vacuum plant at Trenton, the Petroleum Specialities, Inc., at Flat Rock, and the Pure Oil company, at Midland, were ordered to take charge for the government under the same conditions, hours and wages which prevailed before the strike.

Superfort Crashes At Sea; Coast Guard Patrol Rescues 15

San Francisco, Oct. 6. (AP) — A B-29 bomber from the Marianas crashed into the sea 300 miles off of San Francisco today and at a late hour this afternoon the navy announced that two were killed, three were missing and 15 were rescued by coast guards.

The 12th naval district estimated it would take until Monday for the small rescue craft to return to the coast with the survivors and dead.

The search for the missing is continuing.

First word of the impending crash came this morning when the pilot radioed that he was ordering the crew and passengers to parachute.

Two of the engines were out, he said.

The plane was ditched in the vicinity of a coast guard picket boat which guards the route of planes shuttling between Hawaii and the mainland.

The bomber was one of 10 Superforts of the 497th Bomber Group returning to California from Saipan. Eight of the ships arrived at Mather Field this morning, the ninth turning back to Hawaii and landing safely after developing engine trouble.

BICKERING GOES ON IN BIG FIVE

Diplomats Not Confident Russia Will Accept Compromise Plan

BY JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

Washington, Oct. 6. (AP)—Secretary of State Byrnes is hoping for early Russian acceptance of his compromise plan for writing a European peace, but diplomats are by no means confident he will get it.

Instead, troubled United States relations with Russia are regarded as ripe for more weeks of bickering.

Britain is expected to get in on the row when Foreign Secretary Bevin addresses commons Tuesday.

As diplomatic authorities see it, the United States has almost completely abandoned the position of mediator which for a long time under President Roosevelt's leadership it sought to maintain with respect to Russia. The point is made, however, that the Russians by their own actions may have forced the reversal.

Byrnes' report last night on the stalemated London conference of foreign ministers disclosed that the solidarity of the three leading powers is shaken to its deepest foundations over fundamental questions. The main issue, he said, is whether world peace should be dictated by the great powers.

Byrnes abandoned the earlier United States idea of avoiding a general peace conference and called instead for a conference of the European victor nations to which the big three would report recommendations. He said Foreign Commissar Molotov was taking it up with his home government in Moscow.

Lindquist Gets Post Of Labor Relations Director At Fords

Detroit, Oct. 6 (AP) — The appointment of Mel B. Lindquist as superintendent of labor relations for the Ford Motor Co. was announced at the company offices today.

Lindquist, who has been manager of industrial relations for the Murray Corporation of America in Detroit, succeeds Stewart Evans, who has resigned after holding the position for two years.

Evans, a one-time member of the Detroit Red Wings hockey team, said he planned to enter private business. Evans was brought into the Ford company by Harry H. Bennett, whose removal as personnel director, was announced last week.

BELSEN BEAST PALES AT TRIAL

Signed Statement Tells Of Gassing Women At Nazi Prison Camp

BY CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

Lueneberg, Germany, Oct. 6 (AP) —Josef Kramer, chief defendant in the Belsen war crimes trial, listened ashen-faced today as the prosecution read a signed statement in which Kramer told of sending women to their death by gas at the Natzweiler concentration camp.

The purported confession, obtained by commandant Jardin of the French army, was presented by Prosecutor T. M. Backhouse to close the prosecution's case against the "Beast of Belsen" and his staff of 44.

The document contained an admission by Kramer that he knew of the mass murders at the camp he commanded at Oswiecim, although he declared the gas chamber there was outside his jurisdiction.

This declaration was in the statement:

"I have been told some of my SS staff were guilty of ill treatment and brutality toward prisoners. I find this very difficult to believe and would trust them absolutely.

"To the best of my belief they never committed any offenses against prisoners. I regard myself responsible for their conduct and do not believe any of them would have infringed my orders against ill treatment or brutality.

Immediately after adjournment Kramer's attorney, Maj. Thomas Claude Windwood, and Kramer's wife set out for Belsen—50 miles away across Lueneburg Heath—in an attempt to find former Belsen inmates willing to tetsify next week as to Kramer's behavior and intent.

Blackout The Pooch Has Combat Record

Camp Shanks, N. Y., Oct. 6 (AP) —Blackout, a one-eyed, gum-chewing nondescript little pooch, came home from Europe today to take his place in the upper strata of dogdom by virtue of a unique war record.

His pals—he is a mascot of B Battery, 899th Field Artillery Battalion, 9th Army—say Blackout is the only dog to be with an army outfit throughout its training period in the United States, its combat service overseas, and its return home.

What's more, say the soldiers, Blackout captured three Germans (officially), was awarded the Bronze Star Medal (unofficially) and has 104 discharge points (very unofficially).

Blackout is so GI that he was born in the back of an army truck at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo., on New Year's Day, 1944. His mother, who died shortly after he was weaned, preceded him as the outfit's mascot.

Navy Will Reduce Point Scores Soon

Washington, Oct. 6 (AP) — The navy may cut its discharge point score sooner than expected.

Undersecretary Artemus L. Gates today told a news conference:

"Admiral Nimitz reports that they are rolling up bases and releasing ships faster than planned, and as a result a reduction in critical scores for both officers and enlisted men may be speeded up."

OVER 550,000 INVOLVED IN JOB DISPUTES

FORD CO. AND OIL WORKERS RETURN TO JOBS

(By The Associated Press)

Strikes at a glance.

More than 550,000 idle across the continent in labor disputes, but number expected to drop to less than 400,000 this week as indications point to return of more than 150,000.

Principal industries affected:

Coal—John L. Lewis turned down a mine operators' request for ending strikes by United Mine Workers supervisory members; Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach called for resumption of conciliation conferences in Washington tomorrow (Monday) morning.

Motion Pictures—Picketing was peaceful at Warner Brothers studios in Hollywood under a court injunction preventing studio police from interference with picketing; the studio likewise had a restraining order forbidding "illegal acts" in connection with picketing.

Oil—Some of 43,000 striking oil workers return to jobs in refineries under government management, but others still idle pending membership meetings to determine course of action.

More Walkouts Brewing

Automotive—Ford Motor company recalls some 60,000 laid-off workers to report Monday on basis of CIO announcement that six-weeks strike at Kelsey-Hayes Wheel company in Detroit ended. Union to file with NLRB Monday notice of intent to strike by 145,000 Ford workers.

Shipping—End of Longshoremen's strike, which tied up shipping in New York harbor, seen as major local union votes to return to work Monday.

Communications—Federation of Long Line Telephone Workers announced notice of a strike vote to be filed within 15 days.

Lumber—AFL lumber strike in Pacific northwest continues as Sailors Union supports 61,000 strikers in effort to close down industry.

Transportation—Seven northwest states still affected by strike of 2,700 AFL bus drivers.

Production Shrinks

Strife within the soft coal fields took the labor spotlight yesterday (Saturday) as Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach summoned the United Mine Workers and mine operators to Washington in an effort to avert a nationwide coal strike.

Schwellenbach acted as spreading strikes shut down at least 586 pits in six states idling some 155,000 miners in West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Kentucky, Ohio, Tennessee and Indiana.

Across the nation upwards of 550,000 workers were idle, but developments indicated this number would drop to less than 400,000 this week with approximately 150,000 resuming their jobs.

Coal production over the nation was down 749,000 tons daily, more than one-third of the normal output. Steel mills were feeling the pinch of the fuel shortage, many reporting large reductions in production schedules.

The mining dispute involved John L. Lewis' demand for recognition of his Supervisory Workers Union, a part of District 50, United Mine Workers.

Truman Pays Visit To American Legion Fair In Missouri

Caruthersville, Mo., Oct. 6. (AP) —President Truman reached Caruthersville tonight at 7:40 p. m., after a flight from Washington, to make his twelfth annual visit to the American Legion fair.

Riding on the back seat of an open car the smiling president rode down Ward avenue before thousands of spectators after landing at Blytheville, Ark., 29 miles distant, an hour and a half earlier.

The hotel had been cleared of all except a few permanent guests to make room for the president's party.

When the president arrived, 60 members of the Women's Missionary society of the Methodist church worked swiftly in the little used hotel kitchen preparing a chicken and cranberry dinner for about 50 members of the president's party.

THINKS HITLER ALIVE

London, Oct. 6 (AP)—Gen. Eisenhower was reported by the Dutch radio today to have told Dutch newspapermen there was "reason to believe" that Hitler was still alive.

Dread Jap Secret Police Disbanded By New Premier

(By The Associated Press)

Tokyo, Oct. 6 (AP)—Aged Baron Kijuro Shidehara, long-time foe of Japan's machinegun imperialism, became premier of a new government today and forthwith disbanded the dread secret police.

Given a free hand by Emperor Hirohito and the approval of General MacArthur's headquarters, the 73-year-old former ambassador to the United States dug into his task with vigor.

Domei agency said his first act was to reappoint as foreign minister Shigeru Yoshida, a like-minded man whose criticism of the war against the United States once landed him in jail.

His second act, said the newspaper Asahi, was to appoint veteran parliamentarian Yadanji Nakajima to the crucial post of home minister, under whose authority the "thought" police ran their reign of terror.

It was the failure to obey promptly MacArthur's order to dismiss home minister Iwao Yamazaki—who sought to save the secret police—that helped bring down Premier Higashi-Kuni's post-surrender government yesterday.

Gestapo Doomed

Under MacArthur's orders, prefectural police chiefs and others connected with the secret police plan of a gestapo-like "thought control" over Japan will be removed when the new cabinet is formed, Domei announced.

Domei took advantage of MacArthur's new freedom of speech decree to attack the secret police, asserting its "bloody trial of ruthless activities "kept the Japanese people in "utter dread of the name itself for many years."

Meanwhile, Lt. Gen. Robert L. Eichelberger returned from northern Japan where rice riots have been reported and said that the Japanese people there, at first hostile, now welcomed the American troops.

The head of the U. S. Eighth Army of Occupation said the people were making plans for entertaining the troops in the hard winter ahead and that a non-fraternization order would be lifted in a day or two.

The emergence of Shidehara as premier came as a surprise, for up to the time of the announcement those close to the throne were saying the job would go to the baron's old friend Yoshida.

At his first press conference, Shidehara told American newspapermen that his aim in a government, whose life admittedly may be short, was to meet the food and clothing crisis and name a liberal, progressive government that could woo back the friendship of the United States.

"There are many of them (liberals) in Japan," he said, "and it is to them that I am looking in making appointments."

Asked if his government was a stop gap—one that could be discarded for a stronger one in the approaching critical months of winter—Shidehara replied he hoped it would "continue as long as it has the confidence of the people."

Duke Of Windsor Confers With King In Surprise Visit

London, Oct. 6 (AP)—The Duke of Windsor paid a surprise visit late today to Buckingham Palace, where he was reported to have conferred for approximately an hour with his brother, King George VI, in the king's private study.

The duke, who flew to London yesterday from Paris, spent last night and tonight at Marlborough House, the home of his mother, Dowager Queen Mary.

He visited Windsor Castle for the first time since his abdication broadcast, which originated there in December, 1936.

Shintoism Banned As Nippon Religion By United States

Washington, Oct. 6 (AP)— The United States has decided to abolish Shintoism as a state religion in Japan, it was officially disclosed tonight.

This measure, one of the most drastic yet determined upon in remaking Japan into a peaceful nation, will not affect Shintoism "in so far as it is a religion of individual Japanese," the announcement said.

However the cult is to lose its government support, its special taxes, its place in the schools of Japan and its official enforcement of the people.

BARON SHIDEHARA

LAVAL THROWN OUT OF COURT

Vichy Premier Refuses To Return; Jurymen Call Him "Swine"

BY LOUIS NAVIN

Paris, Oct. 6 (AP)—Pierre Laval, expelled again from his trial for treason, adamantly refused to return to court today and the trial proceeded without him or his attorneys.

Declaring jurymen had shouted at him "swine!" and "you deserve to be hanged!" Laval asserted: "The high court will condemn me without having judged me!"

The former-chief-of the Vichy government was thrown out of court, for the second time in three-days of tumultuous proceedings, after a heated argument with Judge Paul Mongibeaux and Prosecutor Andre Mornet.

The court, after deliberating with the jury for 50 minutes, decided to readmit Laval. He reappeared briefly, and announced that he would take a silent defense in protest against the manner of conducting the trial.

Shortly afterward a recess was ordered, and this time Laval flatly refused to return when summoned, asserting he could be led back only in handcuffs. He even forbade his attorneys to reenter the tribunal.

The judge then announced that the trial would proceed anyhow and called the first witness for the prosecution—former President Albert Lebrun.

Cities Are Advised To Line Up Funds For Civic Building

Lansing, Mich., Oct. 6 (AP)—Lt. Gov. Vernon J. Brown today urged city planning officials to include planning for "adequate sources of funds" in their proposed plans for post-war civic building programs.

Speaking before planning officials representing 18 cities at a meeting here to organize a state association of local planning experts, Brown urged the cooperation of state and municpal planning officials with private groups in establishing drives for construction funds.

Most important of Michigan's public building needs is that of expanded school facilities, Brown declared. More than $20,000,000 is needed in Detroit for building grammar schools alone, he said.

Brown outlined the state's program for grants to local planning groups from a $5,000,000 fund established by the 1945 legislature for public works projects.

President Performs At Chicken Dinner

Caruthersville, Mo., Oct. 6 (AP) —President Truman played the piano tonight at a chicken and cranberry dinner prepared for his party by members of the Methodist church women's missionary society.

Stepping up from his seat at the main table at the invitiaion of one of the women, the president, consenting to play Paderewski's Minuet smilingly told the audience:

"When Stalin heard me play this, he signed the protocol at Potsdam."

LABOR CHIEF RELUCTANT TO SEIZE MINES

ABOUT 159,000 MEN IDLE IN OVER 600 MINES

BY HAROLD W. WARD

Washington, Oct. 6 (AP) — John L. Lewis turned down a request of bituminous coal operators today to end the soft coal strikes, but the government did not press the issue.

The operators made their plea at a conference with Secretary of Labor Lewis B. Schwellenbach, who told reporters he did not himself ask the United Mine Workers president to end the strike.

About 159,000 are idle in more than 600 mines in a controversy which sprang up over recognition of Lewis' supervisory union.

No Progress Yet

Schwellenbach indicated that he was withholding his own plea to end the strikes, until next week in case the conferences which he called with the operators and miners fail to produce a solution.

Lewis disclaimed responsibility for the stoppages, saying they were begun by the local unions of his united clerical, technical and supervisory employes, in a battle for recognition by the operators.

The producers insisted that Lewis had inspired the strikes and could end them.

The conference will continue Monday at 10 a. m.

After today's sessions, Schwellenbach said that "it was a good first day but I don't know that I could report progress." He said he was unable to see that either side had changed its position.

Asserting that he had been reluctant to recommend seizure of the strike bound oil facilities this week when his conciliation efforts to end a strike of CIO oil workers failed, Schwellenbach said he would be "just as reluctant" to seize the coal mines.

Test Case Planned

Schwellenbach disclosed that he means to make a test case within the next week of some requests for a wage increase which would involve increasing prices. A case will be started through the War Labor Board and sent to the Office of Economic Stabilization for a decision.

With the oil strikes now a problem of the U. S. Navy, Schwellenbach's path was clear to deal with the coal crisis, which now has spread into six big coal producing states and closed down more than 500 mines.

CIO-oil workers had orders from O. A. Knight, their president to go back to work in the refineries seized by the government. The Navy was optimistic that work would be resumed by the 45,000 strikers by Monday.

Doctor Disappears While Wife Is Held In Mistake Killing

San Francisco, Oct. 6 (AP)—Police today launched a statewide search for Dr. John H. Mansfeldt, prominent physician who disappeared Thursday a short while after his socialite wife, Mrs. Annie Irene Mansfeldt, was booked for what police called the "mistaken jealousy" slaying of Mrs. Vada Martin, 36, a registered nurse.

District Attorney Edmund Brown and Attorney Vincent Hallinan, a long time friend of the Mansfeldts requested the hunt.

The 47-year-old physician was last seen when he rushed into Central Emergency hospital, where his wife was undergoing questioning on the shooting.

Dr. J. C. Geiger, city health director, said Mansfelddt gazed speechless at his wife and hurried away.

OVER 550,000 INVOLVED IN JOB DISPUTES

predicted most of the 51 seized refineries would be delivering gasoline and oil this week, but many oil locals declined to say what action they would take pending membership meetings scheduled over the week end.

In Texas 15 refineries and pipe line systems resumed operations under navy direction at Houston, Fort Worth, Texas City and Corpus Christi.

In Washington, it was learned the navy has agreed to join with the CIO-Oil Workers in asking War Labor Board approval of a 15 per cent wage increase which some refinery companies agreed to put into effect when a 40-hour week is restored in the industry.

In Detroit, the Ford Motor company recalled some 60,000 laid-off workers on the basis of a CIO announcement that the strike at Kelsey-Hayes Wheel company, which supplies parts to the Ford company, had been terminated. Ford spokesmen said production would be resumed this week.

Troubles Multiply

Some 4,500 workers were involved in the Kelsey-Hayes strike, in an unsuccessful effort to have four discharged workers reinstated.

More labor troubles confronted the Ford company as the UAW announced a notice of intent to call a strike of 145,000 Ford workers would be filed Monday with the National Labor Relations Board to enforce demands for a 30 per cent wage increase.

In the wake of Friday's four-hour work stoppage by telephone employes in a demonstration of union strength, the Federation of Long Line Telephone Workers (Ind) announced in New York that 200,000 telephone workers throughout the nation would file a strike vote with the National Labor Relations Board within 15 days. Henry Mayer, counsel for the federation, said the workers probably would demand an average wage boost of 30 per cent.

In the Pacific northwest the Sailors' Union threw its support to some 61,000 striking AFL Lumber Workers, refusing to move by water what they termed "hot lumber."

A deadlock over wage demands by 2,700 AFL Bus Drivers and Station Employes continued to tie up bus transportation over the Pacific Greyhound Lines system in seven northwest states.

Surplus Men Being Released By Army; Points Not Counted

Washington, Oct. 6 (AP)—Legislation intended to help the regular army reach its goal of 300,000 men by next June was signed today by President Truman.

At the same time the army disclosed that it is releasing, outside the point discharge plan, men who are found to be surplus.

The recruitment bill, intended to encourage enlistments in both the army and the navy, allows short term enlistments, optional retirement from the army on half pay after twenty years service (already allowed by the navy) and benefits of the G. I. bill of rights for men reenlisting.

Surplus enlisted personnel being released were described as soldiers found to be not needed by the force to which they are assigned, not possessed of scarce skills, who cannot be retrained economically for other duties, who are not eligible for discharge on point score or age basis, not qualified for foreign duty, and who have completed two years of army service since Sept 16, 1940.

NEW TELEPHONE DISPUTE LOOMS

Workers To File Strike Vote Notice; Attitude Of A. T. & T. Rapped

New York, Oct. 6 (AP)—Leaders of the National Federation of Telephone Workers (Ind.) and its affiliated unions said today a strike vote notice would be filed for telephone workers throughout the nation within 15 days but disagreed whether demands for wage increases would be incorporated in the notice.

Announcement of the impending strike notice was made by Henry Mayer, counsel for the Federation of Long Lines Telephone Workers, an affiliate of the NFTW. He said the notice would be for both long distance and local operators and that demands for a wage increase averaging 30 per cent would be incorporated.

The wage issue was denied a few hours later by both Joseph Beirne, president of the NFTW, and Robert D. Creasey, chief negotiator for the Long Lines Telephone Workers.

In a broadcast from Washington tonight, Bierne said if statements trying in the wage issue with the strike situation had been made 'they are herewith unequivocally disavowed."

Whole Pelts Are Needed For Bounty

Lansing—There's only one way to skin a cat in the conservation department's book—that's to let the bounty claimant do it.

The department has announced that it will approve bounty payments on predators only when whole pelts are turned in, the rule applying to bobcats taken in the upper peninsula, wolves, and coyotes. Bounties are paid for wolves and coyotes taken below the Straits and hunters often have dragged carcasses into the department's Lansing office to the distress of swival chair conservation workers.

The state pays $20 bounties on female wolves and coyotes, $15 for males of these species; $5 for bobcats of either sex taken above the straits.

BUCKET UPSET BY U. M., 20 TO 7

BY FRANK KENNESSON

Evanston, Ill., Oct. 6 (AP) — A Big Ten football game that opened with promise of a Northwestern runaway wound up in the University of Michigan's hip pocket today as the Wolverines came from behind to beat the Wildcats for the sixth straight time, 20 to 7, before a crowd of 40,000 fans.

Sophomore Halfback Dick Conners pedalled 62 yards for a Northwestern touchdown on the third running play of the game and when Freshman Jim Farrar booted the point Northwestern had a 7-0 lead before a minute and 15 seconds had been played.

Before the first period was more than half way over, Bruce Bairstow, Wildcat left half from Waukegan, Ill., broke through the same big hole on the left side of the Michigan line and outran Dan Dworsky, Michigan fullback, 65 yards to the goal line.

But the play was called back because Northwestern was off side and the Wolverines thereupon pulled themselves together and got back into the ball game.

An 18-yard pass from Captain Joe Ponsetto, Flint quarterback, to the newly-arrived Art Renner, Marine dischargee who's back at his 1944 end post, highlighted a 46-yard Wolverine drive that cut the Wildcat lead to 7-6 before the initial period ended.

Michigan, taking a leaf from its topheavy 40 to 0 win last week over Michigan State, took to the air with decided effectiveness against Northwestern, completing six of nine pitches for 105 yards with Ponsetto connecting on four of four for a perfect day.

The Wolverines made 18 first downs to Northwestern's ten and rolled 242 yards net on the ground to the Wildcat's 173.

Nine Michigan ball carriers each showed a net profit on advances with five of them—Teninga, Foltz, Fonde, Weisenburger and Eliott—each contributing at least 30 yards in gains. Fonde and Weisenburger were the leaders with 48 apiece, barely half of the yardage reeled off by Northwesterns' Conners, who picked up 86 yards in eight tries for an average of nearly 11 yards a carry.

Ponsetto's four pass completions covered an overall 58 yards; Elliott hit on one of two for 36 yards and Foltz passing only once, hit the bullseye for 11.

Advocates Barring German Production Of Vital Materials

New York—To destroy German militarism and insure that Germany will never again be able to start another war, a joint council of American engineers recommends that this twice-aggressor nation be prohibited from the synthetic fixation of nitrogen, the production of aluminum and of synthetic liquid fuels, have only limited capacities for steel and steel alloys production, and be prevented from any attempt to develop or use atomic energy.

The joint council that makes this recommendation is composed of 35 prominent engineers and technological specialists representing five of the leading national American engineering organizations. Its complete report is based on several months of study and was recently transmitted to the proper government authorities in Washington. It is now released to the public here at the council's headquarters.

The organizations with representatives on the joint council are the American Society of Civil Engineers, American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers, American Institute of Electrical Engineers, American Society of Mechanical Engineers, and the American Institute of Chemical Engineers.

The report is built around the expressed philosophy that "it is necessary to subtract from aggressor peoples, for a long period of recuperation, the fundamentals of their industrial potential for armed aggression." At the same time it is held that "complete elimination of German industries, leaving agriculture as the sole occupation, would produce an economic dislocation and social chaos of destructive magnitude, not alone in Germany but throughout Europe."

Powerful Irish Wreck Tech, 40-7

BY CHICK HOSCH

Atlanta, Oct. 6 (AP)—A powerful Notre Dame eleven warded off an early Georgia Tech flurry and then unleashed a versatile attack to outclass completely the Jackets, 40-7 today. A capacity crowd of 32,000 attended.

Tech got away to a flying start, driving 52 yards to score in the first six minutes, only to have the Irish tie the count before the quarter ended and then sweep everything the Jackets had to offer.

Tech tallied first when Jack Peek returned Francis Dancewicz's punt 23 yards to the Tech 48 and George Mathews plowed to a first down on the Irish 40. John McIntosh passed 17 yards to Ed Holtsinger, Mathews slipped around end for 16 and on a fake handoff, Holtsinger ran around the weak side to score. Dan Kyker's placement made it 7-0.

The Irish took charge then and completely dominated the playing, scoring in every quarter.

Lt. Anthony Sees Japs Surrender In Sarawak

Lt. John Anthony, U. S. Navy, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Anthony Lake Shore drive, witnessed the surrender of 4,000 Japanese at Kuching, the capital of Sarawak, on the west coast of Borneo. Kuching is located about eighteen miles up the Sarawak river.

In a letter to his parents, Lt. Anthony described his experiences in the Pacific war zone in part as follows:

"Borneo has been a minor theater of this war. The Australians have done the fighting, and are in complete charge. My ship has been stationed at Brunei, about 350 miles to the north, in charge of the naval forces in that area. The surrender had all been arranged far ahead of time through negotiation, finally we started down there. Our ship had 40 Australians aboard, including Brigadier Eistick, who was to receive the surrender. The surrender was to take place aboard an Australian Corvette, the Kapunda.

LT. JOHN ANTHONY

Surrender Was Brief

"About 9 in the morning our party climbed aboard the PT boat and headed for the Kapunda, anchored just off the river mouth. Once aboard the Kapunda we hoisted anchor, and headed up the river, accompanied by the PT's and followed by other ships carrying troops. We reached the anchorage a little after noon. We could see the Japs waiting for us on the dock, parading around with their own flag and the white flag of surrender.

"The surrender was to be brief. A table was placed on the focs'le, and covered with the Australian flag. An armed guard surrounded the area. The crew and some of the Australian soldiers were lined up in a double line from the quarter deck to the focs'le. At 2 p. m., the agreed time, a PT was sent to the landing for the Japs. They returned with an interpreter (whom I later found to be a Japanese wool merchant pressed into uniform) and the general's aide, a young, haughty fellow, and the Hollywood ideal of the Jap officer. He was promptly relieved of his loaded pistol by one of the ship's officers.

"The general was not with him, and after some talk, the boat returned to the dock for him. When the boat returned the general was aboard, with another aide carrying his sword. The general was old, and short, and had to be helped aboard. When the four of them were ready, a Major Rodericues of the Australian army led the way to the foc'sle. I had a fair position, inside the captain's cabin and taking pictures out of a porthole. I had a good view of the table, but part of the ship shut out most of the space to the right, where the Japs were standing.

Watches General Sign

"The brigadier explained that it was understood this was unconditional surrender. The Jap hesitated, saying he had no instructions from his superior officer. The brigadier explained that the day before his superior had been flown to Labuan, and had signed there, and his instructions were that General Yomura sign now. So the Jap moved around the table to the other side, where a chair was placed for him, and slowly signed each of the four copies, smiling a little when one of the pens blotted the page. I was able to get a number of good shots of him then. Then the brigadier required of him that he stand, and hand over his sword in token of surrender.

"That obviously hurt the Jap. He very slowly took off his horn-rimmed glasses, fingered his glass cases as he slowly put it away. He looked up, then down to the table again. Finally, very reluctantly, he rose, faced across the table, and handed over his sword. I vacated the cabin just before the party of Japs entered for a final conference with the brigadier.

"About an hour later the brigadier, General Yomura and party went ashore. The interpreter and two aids were given seats up on the foc'sle and a guard placed around them. Then, having taken aboard a native pilot provided by the Japs, we hoisted up anchor and headed for Kuching, another eight miles up the river."

Dr. Towey Named On Inquiry Board

Dr. John W. Towey, superintendent of Pinecrest Sanatorium, Powers, and president of the Mississippi Valley Tuberculosis Conference, has been asked by Mayor Kelly, of Chicago, to appoint a "competent, neutral and disinterested committee" to inquire into conditions at the Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium in Chicago, according to an account, by Orville Dwyer, in the Chicago Tribune.

Dwyer's story continues:

The Mississippi Valley Tuberculosis conference, from which Mayor Kelly has asked an inquiry, was organized in 1913. It takes in physicians, nurses, superintendents, and directors of sanitariums and others engaged in combatting the disease in Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, North and South Dakota, and Wisconsin.

Under fire by an investigating committtee, by the medical profession, women's clubs and other civic groups, and by patients, nurses and employes, directors of the Municipal sanitarium took the first step to remedy conditions in the institutions that Chicagoans pay three million dollars a year in taxes to support.

After a meeting of the sanitarium directors, Dr. Frederick Tice, the president, said the board, cooperating "fully" with the restaurateurs' recommendation, had asked Frank O. Washam, director of public school lunchrooms, to correct the diets and foods so that patients may get "three wholesome and well cooked meals a day." Dr. Tice said President James B. McCahey of the school board was asked for a 60 day loan of Washam.

There were reports in several quarters during the day that Dr. Tice, who is 74 and not a member of the American College of Chest Physicians, was preparing to resign but these were not confirmed.

Lots of Work to Do

ANNUAL elections of directors of the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce are usually followed by new spurts of activity by this important civic organization. New officers have new ideas to present, programs of work are discussed and adopted, and other steps lead to the achievement of things worthwhile to the community.

When the new board of directors holds its reorganization meeting, it will be immediately faced with many problems and responsibilities. Now that the war is over, there is much that could and should be done in Escanaba.

Service men are being discharged at an increasing rate, and most of them are coming back to their old home towns, including Escanaba. Many others, who were attracted to Detroit, Flint and other industrial centers by high wages in war plants, have had their bellyful of big city conditions and are coming back home, where folks really live. All these people are coming back, confident they will find jobs awaiting them. Those who have been returning in recent weeks have been able to find work for our industries are still looking for help, but there is no assurance that this job surplus will continue indefinitely.

Because it does not want to fail the veterans and other citizens, this community, through its chamber of commerce and municipal administration, embarked upon an industrial expansion program a couple years ago. It was successful in bringing in a few small industries, which now employ more than a hundred persons but promise to more than double the figure in the not distant future. This is all to the good, but Escanaba must not stop here. The efforts to attract new industries must continue, and it is quite important that a sound policy be established so that we can achieve a proper diversity of our industrial economy.

Escanaba has a housing problem. Many families want better homes, and no small number would move here from other cities if they were able to find suitable quarters. A home building program, properly encouraged, could provide much employment during the next several years, and also make Escanaba more attractive and livable. The problem of good housing is very fundamental to the future development of this city.

Then, there are other phases of community life to be considered. Improvement of our swimming beach at Ludington park is No. 1 in the minds of Escanaba people. More can be done with our parks and playgrounds, the beautification of our streets and paving of alleys. Throughout America, small cities are far along with plans for "face lifting" their Main Streets —the modernization of store fronts that were good in the 80's and 90's, but are outmoded now. This is something that might be considered here. And how about the elimination of slums in the vicinity of Ludington street to provide parking space for visiting shoppers?

The tourist business will be a much bigger factor in future years than it was before the war. Escanaba can share in the coming tourist boom by making itself attractive to visitors, by helping in the development of recreational attractions within the city limits and in the surrounding area.

The postwar era is here. It presents a challenge to civic-minded organizations and citizens, who would like to see Escanaba go ahead, not backward. The answers to these problems are not available. They will come when the citizens get together in a cooperative spirit, under the leadership of the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce, the city council and other unselfish groups, and go to work. At no other time in Escanaba's history has there been such a wonderful opportunity for public service.

Rebirth of Freedom

THE Japanese are getting a rebirth of freedom under General MacArthur's direction and it's quite apparent that the Japanese upper crust do not like it.

The Allied commander has ruled that the shackles by which Japanese war lords have retained control of the masses through "thought police" and censorship must be removed. Thus, now for the first time in years the Japanese people are given the right to criticize the actions of their government, including even the emperor himself.

This is the first requirement to bring about a peaceful Japan. As long as the right of free speech is denied the Japanese, there would continue to be the danger that evil forces would once again gain control in that land and launch another program of aggression. The Japanese war lords carried the suppression of free speech to almost unbelievable heights, even to suppression of "dangerous thoughts."

Prince Higashi-Kuni has resigned the premiership rather than carry out MacArthur's orders. The reason, of course, is that Higashi-Kuni, a blood relative of the Mikado, disapproves the new freedom given to the Japanese people, the right to criticize the emperor.

Gen. MacArthur has already moved to establish a free press in Japan, abolishing government controls of newspapers and other publications. Along with this new freedom is the removal of fetters on free thinking and free speech. In his way, Japanese will eventually be given an opportunity to decide for themselves whether they desire to retain the emperor, and to establish a government of their own choosing. This is in line with the principles of the Potsdam declaration.

"Hard Luck" Patton

GENERAL PATTON demonstrated himself to be a brilliant military strategist in the European war theater, but he certainly has not done a good job in public relations.

The general seems to have a faculty for getting into messes, either by talking too much or by other impetuous actions. Or perhaps, it is just that he is a victim of circumstances.

First time that General Patton got in bad with his public was when he lost his temper and slapped a soldier in an army hospital. Several days ago, he was relieved of his Third Army command because he used Nazi officials in administrative posts in Bavaria. Explaining his occupation policy to reporters, he made an unfortunate remark when he compared the Nazi party with political groups in this country.

General Patton is now accused of losing 300 men in a futile attempt to rescue American prisoners at Hammelburg, which was located 50 miles outside of the Third Army's combat zone, because his son-in-law was one of the men in Nazi hands. The general claims he did not know his daughter's husband was there until nine days later, which may be very true, but still many people will not believe him. Probably, his new nickname should be "Hard Luck" Patton.

Other Editorial Comments

SOUNDLY CONCEIVED

(Iron Mountain News)

The proposal that a considerable fund be obtained in Iron Mountain to provide for financing the site of the Veterans' hospital is one that rests on the community at large, and should be met by the community at large.

In voting not to be content to raise the $10,000 required for this purpose, but to set a goal of goal of $35,000, the members of the Chamber of Commerce reached a wise decision. The goal may be high, but there is no doubt that with proper organization and general participation the effort should yield a sum largely in excess of what is required to pay for the hospital site.

Escanaba furnishes a convincing example of what can be done with an industrial fund, wisely administered. It has, by judicious use of such a fund, obtained a number of new industries that are in the way of being established on a permanent basis. They have aided greatly in stabilizing employment in the city, in sustaining property values and in building up confidence in the future. In the long run there is promise they will pay generous dividends on every dollar of the public's money placed in the industrial fund.

With equally sound administration there is no reason to doubt that the results of making a sizable industrial fund available for the use of the Chamber of Commerce would be as good in Iron Mountain as they have been in Escanaba.

THE ISSUE AT URBANA

(Chicago Sun)

The issue in the religious-education trial now concluded at Urbana was not the religious or nonreligious belief of any party or witness. It was not whether religious education is essential. The issue to be decided is simply whether such education has proper place in schools supported by all the taxpayers, whatever their views on religion.

This newspaper believes that religious education is out of place in the public schools. We believe it has vital place in the churches and Sunday schools and in religious homes. To inject it into the public school means a harmful division of schoolmates into Protestant, Catholic and Jewish groups. However "voluntary" attendance in the classes, heavy social pressure and consequent frustration are felt by children whose parents' conviction forbids their conforming to the pattern.

It is good that the issue has been put to a court test. Whatever decision is reached at Urbana, it doubtless will be appealed. The final decision will be of national importance.

JUVENILE MONEY

(South Bend Tribune)

"Since the start of the war," says Dr. M. E. John, a sociologist on the Pennsylvania State College faculty, "the average youngster has had far too much spending money." He classifies it as the type of spending that will be extremely expensive for the nation over the longer term. "Society," he suggests, "may eventually have to foot the bill." A substantial part of the wartime juvenile delinquency, which did not automatically subside when the war ended, seems attributable to that "easy money." In fact, many adults as well as juveniles seemed to be thrown off balance morally by their wartime prosperity.

Those adult bad examples unquestionably have been reflected to some extent in the increased juvenile delinquency.

World Events Analyzed

BY MARQUIS CHILDS

Washington—While he has postponed a final decision on the international use of atomic power, President Truman has made it clear that he favors some form of control through an international organization.

Childs

Long delay on this decision would be unfortunate. While the uncertainty hangs over the world, the distrust and the suspicion grow.

The choices that lie before us have been badly stated, it seems to me. Those who talk about the "Secret" of the atomic bomb, and how we must keep it, are bracing themselves to resist a move that no one contemplates.

—SECURITY COUNCIL PROPOSED—

Those who urge international control of atomic power do not propose to rush out day after tomorrow and hand over the formulae to every nation in the world. That is an unfair distortion of what they propose.

The most intelligent proposal has come in the form of a bill introduced by Senator Brien McMahon of Connecticut who would eventually entrust control of atomic power to the security council of the United Nations organization. But before this was done, careful steps would be taken to make sure the security council had the right to inspect all plants and laboratories in every country of the world to see whether the agreement was being kept.

If the council could not obtain such assurances from each nation, then, presumably, the basic information on the method of atom splitting, which still is the secret of the group that did the job in this country, would be withheld. As President Truman said in his message, the principle is no secret. And the method of blowing the world in pieces will not long be out exclusive possession—perhaps three to five years, at the most.

If we were to move toward sharing this power with the rest of the world, I believe it would do more than anything else to wipe out the cloud of suspicion and hostility rapidly forming on the international horizon.

—USING HINTS AND THREATS—

We should have no illusions about that cloud. Above all, it is separating east and west, separating Russia and the United States and Britain into opposing camps.

We are beginning to deal in hints and threats. On their side, the Russians are beginning to do some hinting about atomic fission, and, as we have learned, the Russians never do anything without a purpose.

One broad hint was recently overlooked. The information bulletin published by the Soviet embassy in Washington was devoted in considerable part, one day last week, to Russia's scientific achievements. In the course of a revealing article titled "Can Science Be Planned?" A. Joffe, director of the physico-technical institute, had this to say:

"By Way of Illustration, I can cite an experience of my own in May, 1930, at a time when our country was still comparatively poor and everything was being directed toward the fulfillment of the first five-year plan.

"My colleagues at the physico-technical institute and I thought it essential to begin work on the atomic nucleus. We were worried, however, because it was the middle of the year, when appropriations for our work had already been made, and the new research work we had outlined required an additional expenditure of several hundred thousand rubles.

"I went to Sergei Orjonikidze, who was chairman of the supreme council of national economy, put the matter before him and in literally 10 minutes left his office with an order signed by him authorizing the sum. Once started, we continued work on the atomic nucleus for 15 years, an essential part of our plan."

That is pretty plain. That says, almost in so many words, that Russia is a rich and powerful country geared to go to work immediately on any technical or scientific problem.

We may not believe it. But the important thing is that Russia wants us to understand just that. Suspicion feeds on itself, and will until we try to find a cure.

Honorable Deflation Now a Fact

Good Morning!

By The Bugler

HUNTING—INDIAN STYLE— The deer hunting season opened Oct. 1, but the majority of our deer hunters aren't interested. For the season Oct. 1 to Nov. 5 is for the bow and arrow hunter, who is very much in the minority compared with the hunter who prefers the more modern rifle.

Dunathan

There are three Delta county men who so far have obtained bow and arrow deer hunting licenses and will do their hunting Indian style. One of these is Walter Nelson of 1222 Eleventh Ave. south, who is starting his fourth year of archery practice in the woods. He is spending the week end at his camp on the Whitefish river, and perhaps by the time this is written he may have bagged a buck. If he does it will be the first time in his bow and arrow hunting experience.

Typical of the archer's approach to hunting was Nelson's reply to a question on whether he has ever been successful.

"Sure I've been successful. I've had some of the most successful hunting in my life these last three years. But if you mean success from the standpoint of meat—no."

• • •

GROWING IN NUMBER— The number of bow and arrow hunters is growing in number. Elmer Johnson of Escanaba Rt. 1 this year will join Nelson in hunting Indian style. Another bow and arrow hunter from Delta county who has obtained a license this year is Laverne Spaulding of Rapid River.

Down in northern Menominee county the Rev. F. C. Dobratz of Powers is going bow and arrow hunting, and Michael Okler of Hermansville is another archer-hunter.

Because bow and arrow hunting is growing in popularity, the state has established a special season for this type of sport, and at Blaney Park this form of hunting is encouraged and the archer has a better than average chance of success.

AN OLD BUSINESS—Nelson and many of the other archers make their own bows and arrows.

Use of the bow and arrow dates back into antiquity. The bow and arrow hunter, when he enters the woods, is emulating the hunting methods of the American Indian, first sportsman on this continent.

Big difference is, of course, that the modern archer tips his bows with a steel point, while the Indian used arrowheads of flint, chert or chalcedony. Ocassionally, of course, the Indian made arrow points of copper, and these were highly prized.

• • •

OF THE STONE AGE— For centuries the Indian method of chipping flint into arrow heads was considered a "lost art." Archaeologists theorized that the Indian may have heated the stone and flaked it off bit by bit letting a drop of cold water fall on it. They also thought it might be possible to tap the stone lightly with a hammer.

Then about 20 years ago an old Wisconsin man, interested in the subject, whose farm was near an ancient Indian village site, found the tools the Indians used to make arrowheads. After many trials he succeeded in using the bone chisels and wooden forms to fashion an arrowhead. Finally he became so adept he could chip one out in fifteen minutes. The "lost art" had been rediscovered.

DEER DRIVES —Even the modern hunter with his rifle closely follows the Indian methods of hunting deer. There are the drives, the waiting at runway, and the "still hunting" which are all familiar to the man who hunts deer, whether it be with rifle or bow and arrow.

More than 300 years ago Champlain, visiting the Huron Indians, reported that he had joined in a deer drive and wrote that "I can assure you one takes a peculiar pleasure in this form of hunting." The men of the tribe drove the deer along piles of brush and logs, with picked bowmen stationed at the end to make the killing.

Champlain also reported that the Indians used dogs in the drive —but the dogs did not bark.

Other drives were made along the banks of rivers or lakes.

Locally it has been reported that the remains of an ancient "deer fence" were visible in Delta county near Flat Rock.

• • •

REVERE THE HUNTER — It was Cadillac, commandant at the fort at St. Ignace and later founder of Detroit, who 250 years ago described the love the Indians had for their hunters. He said that while the Indians might "respect and fear" the warrior, they "loved and revered" the hunter.

This feeling is understandable, for the life of the tribesmen depended almost altogether on game. Without the hunter and his trusty bow and arrow the Indian would have starved.

G. I.—VETERANS SERVICE

Q. If a serviceman is sending a family allowance to his legitimate child and one to an illegitimate child, do they receive equal sums? The serviceman sends his wife $50 family allowance.

A. In the event that the children of an enlisted man are living separate and apart, the total amount of family allowance payable on behalf of the children is equally divided among them. The amount of family allowance payable for an illegitimate child is the same as for a legitimate child.

Q. Are aliens accepted for the U. S. Maritime Service?

A. Every applicant must be a citizen of the United States (native born or naturalized).

OF GENERAL INTEREST

Q. Does the Bible predict the end of the world?

A. The 24th chapter of Matthew is the one usually interpreted as foretelling the end of the world. Verse 56 of that chapter reads: "But of that day and hour knoweth no man, no, not the Angels of Heaven, but my Father only."

Q. Will there be any more strain on a rope if ten horses pull at each end than if one end is tied to a tree and ten horses pull at the other end?

A. Ten horses pulling at each end of a rope in opposite directions provide no greater strain on the rope than if one end is fastened to a solid support and only ten horses pull on one end. The tension on the rope, is no greater than the pull at one of its ends.

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

Q. What are the terms for walking in one's sleep and talking in one's sleep?

A. Walking in one's sleep is somnambulism and talking in one's sleep is somniloquism. They may be indicative of nervous disorders.

Q. Should plants be removed from the sick-room at night?

A. Non-poisonous plants are beneficial in a sick-room or bedroom. In a cold room they may be removed to save the plants, not the sleeper. Change the water daily in vases of cut flowers.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON

Kansas City, Mo.—Navy insiders are hoping for a new deal regarding discharges, recognition of reserves and other navy injustices, following the shake-up in the navy's bureau of personnel and the impending exit of Navy Czar Adm. Ernie King. In fact, some fresh air already has blown into the navy department.

To get the full picture of what's happening, it's necessary to realize that for about five years the secretary of the navy has chiefly been the performing puppet of hard-boiled, high-handed Adm. Ernie King. The late Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox was at sword's points with King most of the time. The admirals would meet in formal session with him, show him a few routine cables and then adjourn.

Later, King and his close associates would handle the really important cables, which neither Knox nor Under Secretary James Forrestal knew existed.

Admiral King pulled his own Annapolis classmates all around him. He formed the most powerful clique the navy has ever seen, with no one able to penetrate it, least of all the secretary of the navy. The older men of King's time at Annapolis (he is 65) got the chief plums, and the eounoer men bore the brunt of the fighting. Antagonism against King was especially bitter among Annapolis men between the classes of 1917 to 1933.

—NAVY STORM BREAKS—

With the end of the war, however, the storm broke. Reserve officers and regular navy officers found strict censorship lifted and began to speak out.

Long before this, however, some of the younger officers on Secretary Forrestal's staff had tipped him off as to what was going on. They told him that the important telegrams were not being shown him. They suggested that he go up to the communications room himself and look them over. Forrestal did, and, from that time on, he has had more to say about running the navy.

The man who handled promotions, transfers and discharges for King was Adm. Randall Jacobs, chief of the bureau of naval personnel or "Bupers." If you control "bupers," you can prety much dominate the navy. And between them, King and Jacobs did.

But the end of the war caught both King and Jacobs completely offguard. They had never expected it so soon.

In fact they were making all preparations for a full-scale invasion of Japan this fall. Furthermore, King did not want to see the navy reduced to anywhere near its peacetime size, so was the last man to want to speed naval discharges.

—FORRESTAL GETS TOUGH—

It was at about this point that Jim Forrestal, for the most part a meek and mild little man, began to get tough. Though he had been wise to King for a long time, he had been handicapped by the fact that King was the special pet of FDR, and the late President considered it his job to run the navy. Forrestal was almost helpless.

With Truman, however, it was different. Truman not only believes in each cabinet member being responsible for his own department, but he also knew something about the way Admiral King had ridden roughshod over the civilian secretaries of the navy. So the first move made by Secretary Forrestal was to remove Admiral Jacobs, the man with the key to promotions, transfers and discharges. Jacobs never wanted to go. He had a fine house at the naval hospital supplied him by the government, together with a couple of Filipino servants. However he had no choice in the matter.

At first a special job was created for Jacobs. He was to be a full admiral with the magnificent title of "Inspector General of the Pacific."

By this time, however, Forrestal was really feeling his oats. He was determined to run the navy himself. And public criticism against Jacobs' slow discharge system strengthened Forrestal's hand. He took away the glittering job in the Pacific and reduced Jacobs to the humdrum chore of running the Bremerton naval base near Seattle, Washington.

Furthermore, Forrestal brought into the navy a man who does not play on Admiral King's team, Adm. Lou Denfeld, and made him chief of personnel. King kicked like a Missouri mule, but Forrestal overrode him.

—THE NAVY'S EISENHOWER—

Then, to make matters worse, Forrestal brought in as Denfeld's assistant, Capt. John Gingrich, another man who does not play on King's team.

Gingrich's career, in a way, might be compared to that of General Eisenhower. Like Eisenhower, he is the product of the Kansas prairies. Born in Dodge City, Kan., he graduated from Annapolis and did a great job in the war as commander of the cruiser Pittsburgh. It was Gingrich who largely towed the flaming carrier Franklin out of danger, incidentally covering up some glaring mistakes by other commanders which have never leaked out.

It was Gingrich who nursed the Pittsburgh all the way across the Pacific when 100 feet of her bow was torn off by a typhoon—once again covering up some faulty construction which the navy didn't want advertised.

But, somewhat like Eisenhower, who was fired by General MacArthur when they served together in Manila in 1938, Gingrich was "fired" by Admiral King. As a reward for his heroism, he was relegated to the sidelines, removed from command of the Pittsburgh, and given the innocuous job of chief of personnel at Miami, Fla. Gingrich had been offered several important jobs by admirals in the Pacific, but King "sent him to Liberia" instead.

At this point, however, Secretary Forrestal stepped in. He ordered young Captain Gingrich back to Washington as deputy chief of the powerful bureau of personnel.

When you leave fats in the soup, you do the same to your Uncle Sam. The war is over, but fat saving isn't.

All the talk about tax cuts raises the question—when will our government be able to quit living beyond our means?

50 EMPLOYED IN NEW PLANT

Iron Mountain Factory Makes Picture Frames

Iron Mountain—More than 50 persons, mostly women, are at work at the picture-frame manufacturing plant of the Michigan Machine Company in the former Chapin warehouse located just south of the Pit. A new venture, begun on a small scale about a month ago by George Wallner, proprietor, the plant is already turning out some 500 frames a day and shipping about two carloads of pictures a week to all parts of the United States.

Newly-designed machinery, and the various departments of the plant, now cover some 500 square feet of floor space. Practically all Michigan Machine employes who formerly worked on the production of gun and tank parts for the Army, boat parts for the Navy and submarine service, and Ordnance equipment have been transferred to the picture-frame factory.

In addition to picture frames, Michigan Machine is also making wood-bases for electric table, bed and pin-up lamps.

Because the skilled help of the firm's toy factory in the old Chapin school building is needed for full production of picture frames, the Machine Company's toy factory has been suspended temporarily, but will be resumed in the near future. There is a large backlog of orders for toys.

"Plans are also underway," Wallner said, "for a sawmill operation, to produce box-lumber." The company has a contract for furnishing box-lumber to a southern Michigan concern, which is now erecting a large box-plant. The project will entail, an addition to a sawmill, a drykiln. Negotiations are in progress, and Wallner predicts success for the development.

Finally, the company is planning production of a toilet-seat for infants and two other wood-products lines, if factory space can be obtained.

County Board To Meet Here Monday

The Delta county board of supervisors will meet Monday at the courthouse in Escanaba in annual budget session, with Chairman A. J. Thorsen of Wells presiding.

The finance committee and some other committees of the county board have met in preparation for the budget session, which is expected to be particularly difficult for the supervisors this year. A lower tax millage allocation for the county, combined with an appeal from the board's equalization last spring, prevents the board from determining the amount it will have available in tax revenue.

State tax commission hearings on the equalization and allocation appeals were originally scheduled for the October board meeting, but have now been delayed by the state to a later date.

In addition to the 1,272,145 acres in the dedicated state game areas and deeryards, the state owns nearly 2,000,000 acres of state forest land which is available for public hunting.

Jobs For Handicapped Persons Sought Here

National "Employ the Physically Handicapped Week," proclaimed by President Truman and Governor Harry F. Kelly, will be observed in Delta county this week, as elsewhere, with special emphasis upon the rehabilitation of handicapped persons of all walks of life.

The United States Employment Service this week will contact employers of labor in Delta county and urge special consideration for the employment of handicapped persons who can be utilized in industry. Other agencies, including the rehabilitation division of the state board of control for vocational education, also have pledged their support to the program.

With the cooperation of industry and labor, employment opportunities will be found for the physically handicapped worker, James Damitz, manager of the Escanaba office of the United States Employment Service, declared yesterday. Mr. Damitz said each of more than 1,725 USES offices in principal cities in the United States is prepared to assist disabled veterans and other handicapped workers in obtaining suitable employment where they could establish, by their own efforts, employment security for themselves and families.

"Thousands of physically handicapped persons in this state demonstrated their ability to obtain and hold important war jobs during the days of manpower shortages," Mr. Damitz asserted. "Thousands of employers have reported these types of workers were among the best in terms of industry and ability to adhere to good employe practices. We know from our own placement experience during the war years that handicapped persons properly placed become permanent employes."

"The United States Employment Service has the responsibility for serving all employable persons who come to it seeking work," Mr. Damitz continued. "But some applicants need special assistance. Among these are the physically handicapped. Through past experiences the USES has developed special services for the handling of such placement cases and is well equipped to render top service to employers and applicants interested in the placement of the handicapped.

"As the community job center for returning war veterans and displaced war workers, the USES office becomes of the utmost importance to both management and labor.

"At the USES office the employer may list his job openings in terms of skills required so that they may be filled by quaified workers who have been given special attention as to their skills, experience and training before referral.

"At the USES office the worker will find that the office has been organized to furnish the type of service he required in terms of the proper job for the right person. Information about the job and what is required of the worker to perform it is obtained from the employer when he reports job openings.

"The USES office is the government's answer to the demand a few years ago for a community job center that would have full information regarding the labor market situation in the area," Mr. Damitz concluded. "The USES has the legal responsibility to aid all workers in obtaining employment. This responsibility, of course, includes assistance to disabled veterans and other handicapped applicants."

A Proclamation

Although our armed forces are victorious overseas and our industries are now engaged in forging the tools essential to our peacetime economy, there is one enemy that still shows no signs of yielding—the homefront enemy FIRE. The past twelve months have seen new highs reached in the national toll exacted by catasprophies of fire and explosion, while thousands of our citizens have suffered cruel death or agonizing injury from fire.

As each unit of our civilization strives to do its share in building in all ways a happier tomorrow, it is the duty of all private citizens as well as constituted authorities to do their utmost to stop this needless sacrifice of human lives and this waste of our vital resources.

Now, Therefore, I, Harry F. Kelly, Governor of the State of Michigan, do hereby designate the week beginning October 7, 1945, as Fire Prevention Week, and I urge every patriotic citizen, every public authority, all civic bodies and all educators, the pulpit, the press, and the radio to emphasize and dramatize for the beneft of our people the grave dangers attendant upon uncontrolled fire in the home, on the farm, in industry and business; and I further direct the appropriate agencies of the State to cooperate with all our citizens in initiating programs pointing toward these objectives.

Given under my hand and the Great Seal of the State of Michigan, this fifth day of September in the year of Our Lord, One Thousand, Nine Hundred Forty-five, and of the Commonwealth, the One Hundred Ninth.

HARRY F. KELLY
Governor

HIGHWAY PLAN TO BEGIN SOON

Congress Releases Funds For Nation-Wide Construction

By ALEXANDER R. GEORGE

Washington, Oct. 13, (AP)—The nation's greatest highway construction program gets going this fall. Congress stepped on the starter when it released federal funds amounting to $500,000,000 a year for the next three years. These funds, provided by the Postwar Highway Act of 1944, will be matched by the states.

Besides this 3-year $3,500,000,000 federal-states project, an estimated $1,500,000,000 will be spent yearly on county roads and city streets outside the federal-aid system.

The record-breaking three-year expenditure will be only the beginning of an expected 10 to 15-year program of motor road expansion and improvement designed to meet traffic needs 20 years from now. It will provide:

1. A 34,000 to 40,000-mile master network of interstate highways connecting all the principal metropolitan areas and containing many new divided multiple-lane expressways.

2. A greatly improved system of secondary, or farm-to-market, highways.

3. Elimination of traffic bottlenecks in and near cities—now the nation's biggest obstacle to safe and economic motor travel.

Routes on the interstate system will closely follow a 34,000 mile network recommended after three years of study by a committee of federal and state highway experts. It connects directly all cities of 300,000 or more population and it reaches 59 of the 62 cities between 100,000 and 300,000. It passes through the most populous belts of rural and small town population and links most of the country's industrial centers.

FENCE COMPANY TO BEGIN NOV. 1

Manager Interviews Men For Jobs At New Industry

Harold W. Arnum, general manager of the Fence Company of America, Chicago, spent all day yesterday at the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce office, interviewing more than fifty applicants for work at the company's new plant here.

The factory, which will manufacture ornamental fencing and rustic furniture, is now being built by Swan M. Johnson, and plans are to begin operations by Nov. 1. Alfred Brandt and Victor Peterson, local contractors, started construction work last week. About fifteen men will be employed in erecting the factory building, which is to be 120 by 80 feet.

Roy Overpack, secretary of the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce, announced yesterday that two promising inquiries have been received to the city's advertisement for new industries, which appeared recently in the Chicago Journal of Commerce. One letter came from a machine shop concern in Detroit, employing 100 persons and requiring from 20,000 to 30,000 square feet of plant space. The other was from a woodworking company in Indiana, which desired a similar amount of space.

Munising News

Five Munising Men Hunting Deer With Bows and Arrows

Munising—This is for the small game hunters attention if they see some rustling in the brush and out comes a man with a coon skin cap, buskskin leggings, mocassins on and carrying a bow and arrow, not to get their trigger finger itchy because its only Frank "Mogwa" Aley on his annual deer hunt, during the bow and arrow season trying for the fifth year to get his buck.

Aley relates much to his disgust that the closest he ever came to bagging one of those there four legged creatures called a buck, was one day while stalking a big buck (the biggest he ever saw) and after getting close enough for a try at it the buck stepped in back of a small sapling and Aley shot for the front shoulder and split the sapling in two to miss the best chance, he says, for a buck.

Several local hunters who get their meat with the old reliable rifle say that Aley has the deer so riled up by the time the regular season opens that they get no shooting in any area where he has been stalking deer.

For several years "Mogwa" was the only archer in the woods but in the past year he has been joined by "Toad" Patterson, Frank Carr, Jerry Dufour and Herbert Skoglund. If any of these archers get their buck all these fellas that hunt with rifles might as well move out of town because they'll never hear the end of it.

THE BORROWER'S Best Credential

It used to be a common practice by many borrowers to renew their loans over and over again. They paid the interest but, as they were "good for it," did not seem to think it was necessary to be in a hurry to pay the principal.

Today this practice is recognized as unsound and contrary to safe banking principles. Banks are no longer permitted to extend loans indefinitely.

A "clean slate"—all old obligations wiped off—is a borrower's best credential when seeking further credit. The most welcome borrower today is the man who not only can pay, but does pay his loans at regular intervals.

Four Boys Wounded In Gun Accidents

Lansing—Four boys, 18 or under, have been wounded in early season gun accidents. A Bay City man is dead and two adults have been seriously injured.

The fact that more than half of the early season accident victims have been under 18 is causing grave concern among leaders of sportsmen's groups and conservation department authorities.

Spurred by the record 38 deaths in 1944 hunting season accidents, sportsmen's organizations and the department in recent months have greatly increased their efforts to educate youths in the safe handling of firearms. Motion pictures, lectures, and demonstrations have been methods used to carry the message of gun safety to scores of groups throughout the state.

Ten Placements Given Disabled Vets In Manistique

The effectiveness of the services of the Manistique office of the United States Employment Service is shown by the fact that ten placements of disabled veterans have been made through the service during the month of September. This is revealed in a statement made by Michael Heinz the manager.

Pointing out that the number of civilian workers who become handicapped for jobs annually exceeded even the wartime military casualties resulting in occupational disability, Mr. Heinz said the USES has developed special selection and placement teachniques for matching workers with the jobs they are able to perform and in which their physical impairment is not an impediment on the job.

"The employment service aims to select occupations to match the physical abilities of the applicant and to find jobs which the handicapped person can perform despite the physical limitation." Mr. Heinz said. "With the USES given responsibility in all communities for assisting veterans to find suitable employment, the only limit to our capacity for placing them will be the limitations placed by those who have jobs to offer."

He invited all employers in Schoolcraft county to file specifications of their job opportunities with the USES office at Manistique, and to indicate a willingness to employ physically handicapped workers when such workers are qualified for the job.

WEATHER HITS SPUD HARVEST

Labor Shortage Also Holds Up Work In Many Places

Yields slightly under those of last year, and harvesting weather the worst in many years, is the report of potato growers throughout most of the growing areas of Schoolcraft county.

With about two-thirds of the crop harvested, it will be a race to determine if all of it can be cropped before the heavy freeze begins. The past week, with heavy rains every third day, but two complete harvesting days have been available, it being explained that wet grounds had made the digging of potatoes inadvisable long after the rain clouds had cleared.

Shortage of labor is also providing grief for growers with large acreages. Little trouble has been experienced in recruiting pickers, but employing those who handle the heavier work, such as sacking and storing, has been discouraging.

Due to the fact that harvesting is still in progress, there are few reports of yields available at this time. However, James Wieland, residing five miles north of the city, reports that his ten acre plot has netted him 3,500 bushels of tubers.

Many growers are marketing their crops immediately with fair prices prevailing for tablestock.

The quality of the crop is the best in years.

WILL DISCUSS NURSE'S WAGES

Executive Secretary Of Nurses Association To Speak Here

A meeting of special importance to nurses of this vicinity is announced for the evening of Thursday, Oct. 11, at the home of Mrs. A. J. Cayia when Mrs. Thelma Brewington, acting executive secretary of the Michigan State Nurses' association will speak on the association's plans for establishing minimum salaries and employment practices for nurses.

The meeting is under the arrangement of the Manistique District Nurses' association and all nurses in the area are invited to be present.

Recently appointed executive secretary of the state association, Mrs. Brewington has been active in the recent past in the state nursing council for war service, acting as coordinator for the refresher course offered graduate nurses in Michigan.

In addition, Mrs. Brewington was coordinator of the basic science program at the University of Michigan. In this project, many of the up-state nursing schools sent their students to the university for the first semester of their training, thus helping to meet the emergency caused by a shortage of instructors and the heavy teaching load due to the increased enrollment of students through the U. S. Nurse Cadet Corps.

At its regular monthly meeting Friday, September 29, the Manistique Board of Education authorized the establishment of a Veterans' Institute as a separate department of the high school.

All Veterans of World War II are eligible to attend.

The Institute will be operated as a separate department of the high school and will provide courses suitable for the educational needs of the veteran within the range of the local high school curriculum and in addition correspondence courses approved by the State Board of Education may be taken.

Primarily the Institute is to provide the opportunity for ex-service men who did not complete high school to complete their high school work in as short a time as their ability permits.

A full time program will consist of 25 clock hours of instruction.

Under Public Act 16 for vocationally handicapped, the veteran may receive per month a subsistence allowance of $93 if single, and $103 if married. Under Public Act 346, G. I. Bill, the veteran, if single, may obtain $50 per month, and, if married, $75. Veterans under Public Act 16 must carry a full school load unless excused by the Veterans' Administration. Under Public Act 346, G. I. Bill, he may be enrolled in less than a full-time load. His subsistence may or may not be pro-rated according to his outside work load.

The Institute will be started as soon as the enrollment warrants, and ex-service men may enroll or obtain further information at the superintendent's office in the high school building.

Off The Chest . . .

BY JAY ARRELL

Every so often some one comes to us with the suggestion that we "give both barrels" to a serious discussion of the "deplorable trends of present day modern youth." And in the stress of lost patience we have often been moved to comply with the wish of our friends. This urge has been particularly strong after we have come in contact with certain examples of rudeness, waywardness and downright wantonness, that are too often very much in evidence.

And certain it is that when one is in a critical mood and primed for a crabby tirade, there is a wealth of provocation for scolding. But when we get down to that part of the discussion where "they didn't do things like that when I was a boy," we find that we aren't absolutely sure of our ground.

There were tough kids too in the days when we were in our adolescence. Along with these were also spoiled brats, and—we'll venture to say, as many selfish, discourteous and out of hand youngsters in our crowd as there are among the average group of youngsters today. And some of us more sheltered young folks, when given the opportunity, followed the leadership of the worst ones and "cut up something scandalous."

We made lots of noise, we roughed it up in the opera house peanut gallery, we smoked cigarettes when to do so was definitely disgraceful, and some of the pernicious mischief we resorted to would not be tolerated today. Folks a generation or two older than we were shook their heads sadly and wondered "what in the world is going to become of our young people?"

Well, the world moved on. We became adults and learned to look with disdain and contempt upon the callow outbursts and actions of those who succeeded us. As time went on, we settled down into certain grooves of existence. Some of us were successful, some of us were failures, but most of us were somewhere between those extremes. Some of the roughnecks remained roughnecks and some of them became solid citizens. (It largely depended upon the kind of women they married.)

What prompted us to go to bat on this subject is the fact that children of today are being brought up with the idea that spending money is something that springs eternal from the pockets of their fathers. Offers of jobs, suitable for growing boys — particularly in their late teens — fall on deaf ears. It's too easy to sponge on the old man for spending money for sodas, girls, gasoline to drive dad's car and whatever else it is that kids spend money for these days. Jobs such as carrying newspapers, setting pins in bowling alleys, helping in grocery stores, garages, etc., offer nothing but a picture of unnecessary bother for the average teen aged boy.

Exasperated at times over this state of affairs, we have often griped at the utter irresponsibility of so many youngsters. But a very minimum of thinking will reveal the fact that the youngsters are not to blame. This trouble is a product of the present lush times. Some day the easy money will be but a fond memory.

In the meantime we still have faith in the inheritors of our destiny — particularly those from Manistique. Some need a good kick in the pants, but we love them anyway. They will make out all right.

Series Squared At Two-All As Tigers Come Back To Whip Cubs, 4-1

TROUT PITCHES BRILLIANT GAME

Batting Famine Broken In Fourth; Grizzly Run Unearned

BY GAYLE TALBOT

Chicago, Oct. 6 (AP)—Detroit's unpredictable Tigers came roaring back again today behind the brilliant five-hit pitching of Paul "Dizzy" Trout to wallop the Chicago Cubs, 4 to 1, before 42,923 fans at Wrigley Field and square the World Series at two victories apiece.

In one big inning, the fourth, the Bengals broke their appalling batting famine to drive Southpaw Ray Prim from the mound and score all their runs on four hits and a pair of walks. With that to work on Trout was never threatened, and the only run scored off his scorching fast ball and curves was unearned.

Start Is Gloomy

Up to the time of their dramatic outbreak, the Tigers had suffered hitless through 10⅔ innings and had not scored a run in 15 frames of series play. For three innings in today's gloomy, drizzling weather it had even looked like Prim might equal Claude Passeau's one-hit classic of yesterday and all but crush out Detroit's last hope of the championship.

One was out when the Tigers suddenly burst their bounds and jumped back into the fight. Eddie Mayo opened it with a walk, the first Bengal to reach first. Roger Cramer and Hank Greenberg followed with clean singles, Mayo scoring on the second blow, as Cramer advanced to second.

When Roy Cullenbine came through with his first hit of the series, a rousing double down the left field line that scored Cramer and sent Greenberg to third, Prim was yanked and was replaced by Paul Derringer.

Top Sluggers Fanned

York was purposely passed, filling the bases. Outlaw forced Rudy at second, Greenberg scoring on the play, and Catcher Paul Richards then drove Cullenbine across with the fourth run on a clean single to center. Trout closed the rally with an infield roller, and then strode back out to the mound to protect his lead manfully through the next six innnings.

Having been badly off form in the closing weeks of the American League campaign, the 30-year-old righthander had figured little in pre-series speculations and had become known as the "forgotten man" in recent days as Manager Steve O'Neill passed him up in favor of three other starting pitchers.

The Cubs, who came back to their own park today brimming with confidence that they would wind up the series in short order, will not soon forget what he did to them today. Although they scraped together five hits, they were absolutely helpless when they got men on base and Trout really went to work.

Phil Cacarretta and Bill Nicholson, the Cubs' two top sluggers, each struck out twice. In the fourth inning, when the first two Chicago players, Don Johnson and Peanuts Lowrey, led off with singles, Trout struck out Cavarretta, forced Andy Pafko to roll out to the infield and then whiffed the mighty Nicholson to slam the door.

York Throws High

It took a lead-off triple by Johnson and an error by York to give the Cubs their only score in the sixth inning. When Lowrey, who followed Johnson, rapped a grounder down to Jimmy Outlaw at third base, Johnson was caught cold and would have been an easy out if Outlaw had chosen to run him down.

But Outlaw merely glanced at the base runner and whipped the pellet over to York to make the putout of Lowrey at first. Johnson went scrambling back toward third, and York, trying to nail him, threw high over the bag and against the stands. The Cub runner scored before the ball could be recovered.

York more than made up for this one lapse by several brilliant fielding plays in which he knocked down well-hit balls and either made the putout himself or tossed to teammates. His three assists during the game tied a World Series record shared by four other players.

Roger Cramer also pulled Trout out of several spots by roaming far to his left or right in center field and hauling down hard-hit balls. The veteran led the Tiger hit production with a pair of singles.

Grimm's Tricks Fail

In an effort to get rallies started against Trout, the Cubs tried several pinchhitters, and, in all, paraded four pitchers to the hill. Hy Vandenberg, who hurled the sixth and seventh frames after Frank Secory had batted for Derringer in the fifth, held the Tigers hitless. Paul Erickson worked the last two chapters and gave up two singles while striking out as many Tigers.

The only Cub to reach first in the last three innings was Heinz Becker, who hit for Shortstop Roy Hughes after two were down in the seventh and singled into left field. Paul Gillespie then batted for Vandenberg and was an easy out on a toss from York to Trout. All told five Bruins were left on base, and six Tigers were stranded. In all, Trout fanned six men, while four Tigers bit the dust on strikes.

Cramer, with his two singles, became the leading Detroit hit producer with five. Stan Hack, Cubs' third baseman, still led both teams with six safeties, though Trout handcuffed him today. Lowrey and Cavarretta had each connected five times.

While the Cubs still looked much the faster, more alert ball club, the sentiment tonight was vastly different from that of 24 hours back, when 55,500 fans trudged out of Briggs Stadium in Detroit like they were heading for a wake and the Cubs whooped it up in their dressing room as though they already were counting the winners' share.

Newhouser Next Bet

The Tigers proved again they could win behind good pitching, and they had their lefthanded ace, Hal Newhouser, to throw back at the Bruins in tomorrow's fifth game against Hank Borowy. Although Newhouser was roughly handled in the opening game, there was no question of the 25-game winner's ability to pitch superb ball most of the time, and tomorrow could be one of his days. Borowy scarcely could be expected to improve on the 9 to 0 trimming he administered to the American Leaguers in the first tussle.

After having played errorless ball in the first three games, the Cubs finally proved they were fallible when Nicholson let Cramer's single to right-center get through him for an extra base today. Despite this miscue and that of York, however, the field of both clubs continued to be on World Series caliber. Andy Pafko, the Cubs' dazzling young centerfielder, had made a great impression on the Tigers with his long runs and sure catches.

Hank Greenberg, who had looked very slow at the start of the play-off, raised Cubs' eyebrows by the manner in which he raced to his left to gather in Livingston's lead-off single in the third inning and whip the ball back to the infield. The Cubs, in fact, had about quit trying to stretch every single into a double and plainly had gained some respect for the Tigers' throwing arms.

When Derringer appeared in a relief role during the Tigers' big inning he became only the second pitcher ever to play for three different clubs in a World Series, Burleigh Grimes sharing the distinction. Derringer was with the St. Louis Cardinals in the 1931 series and with the Cincinnati Reds in '39 and '40. Grimes was with the pennant winning Brooklyn Dodgers in 1920, with the Cards in 1930 and '31 and with the Cubs in 1932.

The Sports Parade

By Ken Gunderman

Detroit is second only to New York in the nation's greatest baseball centers but the Tigers, now playing their seventh World Series, have the poorest record in the baseball classic of any team in the American league. The Tigers have won only one world championship, in 1935, and their five losses represents nearly one-third of the total defeats suffered by the American league in competition against the Nationals. The Tigers won the A. L. flag three consecutive years—1907-08-09— but they lost all three World Series and won only four games in the three classics.

• • •

This is the fourth time that the Tigers have met the Chicago Cubs in World Series competition. The Bruins won in five games in 1907—the first game was a 3-3 tie in 12 innings. The following year it was the Cubs and Tigers again in the blue ribbon event, with the Chicubs again winning in five games. In 1909 Detroit carried the Pirates to seven games before losing the championship to Pittsburgh. The next pennant didn't come to Detroit until 25 years later—1934—and that time the Tigers went down in a hard fought seven game series to the Cardinals. It was in 1935 that Detroit broke through for their first and only world championship defeating the Chicago Cubs in six games.

• • •

The last time that Detroit played in the World Series, prior to the current classic, was 1940 when they met the Cincinnati Reds. That series also went to seven games, with the Tigers losing the final game, 2-1, in a great pitching duel between Paul Derringer of the Reds and Bobo Newsom of the Tigers. Newsom won two games of that series and Tommy Bridges a third, but Bobo narrowly missed reaching the hall of fame with a triple victory in the great American sports classic.

• • •

Incidentally, the Tigers have had only 12 managers in the 45 years of their big league existence, only seven since 1907, when Hugh Jennings took over the leadership of the club, which he held for 14 consecutive years. He was followed by Ty Cobb, who headed the club from 1921 to 1926 inclusive. George Moriarty was manager for two years, 1927-28, followed by Bucky Harris, 1929-33, inclusive Mickey Cochrane, 1934-38; Del Baker, 1938-42; and Steve O'Neill 1943 to the present. Detroit has never finished last in the American league, although the club placed seventh five times, the last in 1931. They have held every other ranking at least six times.

FIRST VICTORY FOR MUNISING

But Stephenson Files Protest Of 13-12 Decision

Munising, Oct. 6— Munising scored its first football victory in three seasons today, nosing out Stephenson, 13 to 12, at the Munising athletic field. The victory, however, has been protested by Stephenson, with the contention that both of the Munising touchdowns resulted from illegal formations. Coach Leo Brunelle reported that he would file formal protest with the state athletic association next week.

The Eagles scored first in the opening quarter, when a bad pass from center by Munising on fourth down gave Stephenson the ball on the Algers' 10 yard line. Sandeen scored on the first plan on an end run. Mellinger's kick missed.

Shortly after Beatty, of Munising, flipped a sideline pass to LeVeque who went all the way for the score. Coach Brunelle protested the play was a sleeper, outlawed by National Federation rules. Leveque missed the kick.

In the third period, Munising held the Eagles for downs on the four yard line, but the Algers' ensuing punt traveled only to the 35 yard line. Stephenson advanced to the five yard stripe as the quarter ended, and Mellinger scored on an end run at the beginning of the final period. A placekick was short of the crossbars.

With four minutes of play remaining, a 20-yard pass from Beatty to Morrison advanced to the nine yard line. Beatty gained to the four yard stripe and then Morrison playing wide, took a pass from Beatty for the touchdown. Leveque kicked the point for the margin of victory. Coach Brunelle protested this touchdown, claiming that the flanker, an end was not on the scrimmage line when the pass was thrown.

The officials—Larson, of Niagara; Lotz and Perman, of Florence, disallowed the protests.

Iron Mt. Defeats Norway, 20 to 7

Norway, Oct. 9—Iron Mountain defeated Norway, 20 to 7, here this afternoon. The Mountaineers scored in the first, third and fourth periods. Norway scored its touchdown in the closing minutes of the game.

Bertrand scored in the first period on a 34 yard dash and D. Anderson kicked the point. The second touchdown resulted from a 77 yard drive, with Hosking skirting left end for 20 yards and a touchdown.

The third touchdown was set up as a result of a recovered fumble on the two yard line. Anderson plunged for the extra point.

Norway made its touchdown against the Mountaineer Reserves, G. Anderson scoring from the one yard line.

Cadets Rout Wake Forest, 54 and 0

BY HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

West Point, N. Y., Oct. 6 (AP)—Army's amazing collection of football toters ran away from Wake Forest today to the tune of 54 to 0 as almost every play the Cadets engineered on a wet, slippery field was turned into a touchdown threat.

Hoosiers Wipe Out Illini Title Hopes

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 6. (AP)—Illinois university's early threat as a Western Conference title contender was all but wiped out today when a pass-conscious Indiana Hoosier eleven roared down the field early in the final period to hand the Illini a 6-0 defeat.

EMERALDS BOW TO NEWBERRY

Indians Score 27 To 12 Victory Over Manistique Team

Newberry, Oct. 6— The Newberry Indians defeated Manistique, 27 to 12, in a high school football game here this afternoon scoring three touchdowns in the second quarter after the Emeralds had grabbed a 6-0 lead in the opening quarter.

Manistique drew first blood with Shaw slashing off tackle from the 12 yard line. The pass for the extra point was incomplete.

The Indians then produced a reverse play that was in the Emeralds' hair all afternoon. Mattson scored on the reverse at the start of the second period and counted another touchdown on the same play before the quarter was ended. Mixed between these scoring thrusts was a touchdown pass to Kujala. All tries for extra points were missed.

In the third period Newberry blocked a punt and the Manistique man who scooped up the bal was tackled behind the goal line for a safety.

Manistique then produced its best offensive display of the day, driving nearly the entire length of the field for a touchdown, Burnis scoring from the four yard line.

The final Newberry touchdown came on a long pass to Kujala in the closing minutes of the fray.

Victory Squeezed Out By Spartans

East Lansing, Mich., Oct. 6. (AP)—Scoring late in the second period, the Michigan State college football team squeezed out a 7-6 victory over a stubborn University of Kentucky eleven here today before an estimated 9,300 rain-drenched fans.

Escanaba Runs 5 Touchdowns In First Half Of Grid Classic

Playing inspired football, the Eskymos kicked the slats out of the Menominee Maroons yesterday to grab a glorious 48 to 12 victory at the Escanaba athletic field. Virtually nothing could have stopped the Eskymos the way they performed in the first half of the game. They scored five touchdowns in that riotous first half, shoving the ball into the end zone every time they gained possession.

Content with that margin, Coach Ruwitch used his second stringers throughout the third quarter and it was then that the Maroons broke into the scoring on a spectacular 70 yard punt return by Boyle, speedy Menominee halfback.

The Eskymos drove 80 yards for the first touchdown after Godin's kickoff sailed into the end zone for a touchback. Behind top notch blocking, Ross, Wickholm and Peterson cut the Maroon line to shreds. Ross sparked this drive with a brilliant 37 yard dash on a reverse to the 24 yard line. Peterson added four yards and Wickholm, plunging like a demon afire, accounted for the last 20 yards in four plays. Peterson kicked the extra point.

MAROON B WINS, 6-0

The Menominee Reserves defeated the Eskymo Reserves, 6 to 0, in a preliminary game yesterday. A pass, Brown to Johnson, in the third quarter was good for 30 yards and the touchdown. A plunge for the extra point was stopped.

Quick Touchdowns

The second Escanaba touchdown followed an 87 yard march, with a 15 yard penalty against the Eskymos thrown in for good measure. McCormick quick kicked for Menominee to the Escanaba 13. In two plays the Eskymos were at midfield, Wickholm crashing 16 yards on the first play and Ross skirting the end for 21 yards. Wickholm plowed through for nine more but on the next play Escanaba was penalized 15 for holding. Peterson passed to Dufour for 10 yards and Wickholm followed with yardage to spare for a first down on the 34 yard line. Ross added five and Peterson broke through for 12. Wickholm picked an opening right in the middle of the line to break through for the 17 yard sprint to the goal. Peterson kicked the extra point. The quarter ended following the next kickoff with Escanaba leading, 14 to 0.

Three more touchdowns were piled up in the second quarter. Escanaba took possession on their own 44 after the Maroons had punted. Peterson passed to Dufour for 10 yards and Ross and Wickholm made a first down on the 30 yard line. The Eskymos were penalized five for offside but Wickholm drove for 10 and then added four more. On the next play Peterson skirted the end for a touchdown on a 16 yard dash. Peterson kicked the extra point, his eighth consecutive conversion.

The next touchdown came with striking suddenness. Menominee received the kickoff but on the second play Shatusky fumbled, Weir recovering for Escanaba on the 27 yard line. Peterson passed to Finn for 25 yards to the two yard line and then Peterson scored on the next play. Peterson's kick for the extra point was blocked.

Reserves Take Over

Peterson's kickoff traveled only to the Menominee 46 yard line and the Maroons punted back to the Escanaba 22. Peterson heaved a long pass to Dufour who traveled 52 yards before he was hauled down from behind on the 26 yard line. Menominee was penalized to the 13 yard line and then Peterson passed to Ross in the end zone for a touchdown. Peterson kicked the goal to make the score 34-0 second before the half ended.

The entire reserve team, excepting Scott at center, played the third quarter. Midway in this period Scott's towering punt was scooped in by Boyle on the Escanaba 20 and he charged down the east sidelines to go all the way for a touchdown. Scott blocked the kick for the extra point.

The reserves got this score back, with interest, shortly after the fourth quarter started. Dufresne recovered a Menominee fumble on the 20 yard line. McDonald scored in four plays, gaining five, eight, two and five yards consecutively. Scott kicked the extra point.

The second Menominee touchdown came midway in the final period on a neatly executed pass from McCormick to Schilawski which the latter took on about the 25 yard line. He faked off one defender and then streaked to the goal. The play was good for 52 yards. A plunge for the extra point was stopped.

At this point the Eskymo regulars returned to the fray and they marched 75 yards for the final touchdown after receiving the kickoff. Two 20 yard sprints by Ross sparked this drive, but it was the old reliable warhorse, Wickholm, who accounted for most of the last 15 yards and who drove into the end zone for the score. Peterson kicked the extra point to bring the score to 48 to 12. Menominee gained 11 yards on a pass to midfield as the game ended.

BRAVES CHALK UP 3RD IN ROW

Keilmen Present Strong Running Attack To Lick Graeveraets

Gladstone, Mich.—Relying mainly on a powerful running attack, Gladstone high school's Braves chalked up their third consecutive victory of the season at the expense of Marquette here this afternoon at Marble Athletic Field. The score was 21-0 and Gladstone remained among the ranks of the Upper Peninsula's undefeated and untied elevens.

The game at the start had all the aspects of a rout. Marquette received the opening kickoff and was forced to punt. Engstrom galloped 20 yards and then LaVelle went the remainder of the ways for the first score. Haglund's place-kick was good and the score was 7-0.

It was only a few minutes later that Gladstone tallied again. Marquette was forced to punt. Haglund on the first play rounded right end and raced down the sidelines for 50 yards from his own 40 to Marquette's ten. LaVelle made four and LeGault went the remainder. Again Haglund's kick was good and Gladstone led, 14-0.

Touchdown Recalled

Then the complexion of the game changed and Marquette came back to rush and pass its way to the 13 where a pass interception by Engstrom stopped the scoring threat.

In the second period LaVelle went from midfield to cross the goal line but the pass which he received from Engstrom was ruled illegal and the ball was called back and Glandstone penalized five yards.

Marquette dominated the play in the third quarter. Taking the kickoff, they drove to the 11. Attempting to pass, the ball squirted into the air off the Marquette halfback's hand and Tom Quarnstrom picked it out of the air and raced 85 yards to cross the goal, only to have the ball called back and the play cancelled by a Gladstone offside. Gladstone held and took the ball on downs.

In the fourth period Gladstone made two successive first downs and then Haglund passed to Gillis in the end zone but Gillis dropped the ball. Two plays later Haglund passed again to Gillis who took it on the 12 and went the remainder of the way. Haglund made his third successive try from placement good and the score stood at 21-0.

The lineups:

CITY FIRE LOSS TOTAL $19,175

Attention Is Directed To Prevention Need By Fire Chief

The loss by fire in the city of Escanaba for the 12-month period ending July 1, 1945, totaled $19,175, it was reported yesterday by Fire Chief Arvid Johnson in connection with the observance locally of National Fire Prevention Week, which opens today.

During the 12-month period the fire department responded to a total of 253 calls, of which 225 were by telephone and 28 from fire alarm boxes. Thirty-four of the fires were classified as chimney fires, 63 were grass fires, and 39 were in dwellings.

According to national figures, fire fighting forces in the United States are waging a losing fight against an enemy that not only destroys property but kills and maims as well, the fire chief pointed out.

National Fire Protection Association figures show there are 1,800 fires daily which take a toll of 28 lives. Each day, also fire attacks 1,000 homes, 130 stores, 100 factories, 7 churches, 7 schools and 3 hospitals.

"Most of these fires are unnecessary," Chief Johnson said. "The twin objectives of Fire Prevention Week is to rid our homes and community of the hazards which account for the great majority of fires, and to focus attention on the careless habits which take such a high toll of life and property."

The principal breeders of fire, all of which can be wiped out, are:

Negligence in handling matches;

Careless smoking habits;

Sparks falling on flammable wood roofs;

Defective heating plants and chimneys;

Accumulations of rubbish in closets, attics and basements.
